Bordeaux: An intoxicating cocktail of 18th-century savoir-faire, millennial hi-tech and urban street life, France's sixth largest city is among Europe's most exciting and gutsy players. This is the world's largest urban World Heritage Site, cradling half the city (18 sq km) in its Unesco-listed treasure chest. From the elegant symmetry of place de la Bourse, palaces strung with stone-sculpted mascarons (faces), to tree-shaded boulevards laced with hôtels particuliers (mansions) built for 18th-century wine merchants, Bordeaux architecture is world-class. Contemporary architects continue the trend for excellence, with breathtakingly wild and beautiful creations resembling giant wine decanters, gleaming white pebbles, all sorts. An interesting portfolio of art museums embracing all periods and genres is the icing on the cake to this magnificent architectural heritage. Previously named "the sleeping beauty", the city is coming out of a 20-year renovation program that has brought it back to its former glory.*

Free afternoon & evening

Situated in Arcachon Bay in southwest France, Arcachon is one of the most popular resort towns on the French Atlantic Coast. It's known for its white sandy beaches, fresh seafood restaurants, and laidback coastal lifestyle, as well as its proximity to Dune du Pilat, Europe's highest sand dune, and Gascogne Landes Regional Nature Park. This part of the inland lagoon is the weekend fashionable venue of Bordeaux - famous for its tiny wooden oystermen villages. "A small, interior sea", opens to the Atlantic, and backed by the pine forest. A wide, triangular slash, hemmed by picturesque villages, and punctuated by the incessant come-and-go of the tides, the Bay of Arcachon is an incomparable site that you discover each time for the first time.

Pyla-sur-Mer is a seaside resort on the Atlantic coast extending from the top of the Arcachon basin, until the dune of Pilat, famous for being the highest sand dune in Europe. The resort was created at the start of the First World War by an entrepreneur, Daniel Meller, after an exchange of land with the state. It was named Pyla which means "mount" in Gascon. Between the two wars, a second promoter expanded the resort to the south. All these buildings were carefully constructed however to protect the surrounding forest. Pyla-sur-Mer and its dune are certainly worth seeing, both for its natural beauty and its abundance of cultural and leisure activities that surround it. Dune de Pilat, the highest sand dune in Europe which rises to 374 ft (114m) above sea level and stretches south from Arcachon Bay for almost two miles. Climbing the dune, taking a walk in the surrounding pine forests and relaxing on the sandy beaches has been de rigueur here ever since the aristocracy discovered this privileged part of the world during the belle époque. The romantic seaside town and French oyster-harvesting center of Arcachon is a three-mile (5 km) north and the cosmopolitan city of Bordeaux.*

Meals included: Breakfast, oyster & wine tasting

After a visit of the property, park, and cellars, your sommelier will guide you through a tasting straight from the barrel!

Saint Emilion could be the oldest active wine producing appellation in the Bordeaux region with a history that dates back to the times of the ancient Romans. While St. Emilion claims credit for the being the home of the famous Roman poet and wine lover, Decimus Magnus Ausonius, (who served as the inspiration for the name of the now famous, Chateau Ausone) the area takes its name from a Benedictine Monk who was known as Emilian. Emilian lived in the area and is responsible for starting to create the uniquely designed, limestone church that in the center of the village of St. Emilion. Today, the village of St. Emilion is a protected, Unesco, world heritage site. St. Emilion also lays claim to having the oldest, wine society in France.

The story of Troplong Mondot is rich with charismatic and cultured personalities who were at the head of their field by leading with excellence a singular vision. By trusting Aymeric de Gironde for the general management of Troplong Mondot, SCOR has been bringing a new spirit since 2017 while respecting the values and the spirit of the place.

In 300 years, Chateau de Ferrand has known only two families, making it one of the oldest and most consistent properties of Saint-Emilion: Elie de Bétoulaud and his descendant the Marquis de Mons. Then the family of Baron Bich, founder of the company Bic. Built in 1702, the château is a perfect illustration of classical rigor. The charm of the property, the elegance of its architecture, the caves dug "as an eternal monument to the glory of King Louis the Great" give this site a unique character.

DAY 5: French Basque Coastline

Full day trip with private driver/guide (Length: aprx 8h)

Experience the delights of the French Basque coast between Bordeaux and San Sebastian. Today, you will experience a private and unique guided tour through the whole French Basque Coast on the way to San Sebastian (Gipuzkoa), visiting its most beautiful coastal villages: Bayonne, Biarritz and St Jean de Luz. On a very scenic drive along the magnificent coastal road, you will first stop at the quaint city of Bayonne, before arriving at the famed seaside town of Biarritz, just few kilometres away. The "Queen of resorts and the resort of Kings" was a magnet for celebrities and royalty figures like Napoleon III, Gary Cooper or Frank Sinatra and still, nowadays it is a very important tourist reference point. You will enjoy a walk along the "Grande Plage", the main beach in town, where surfers from all over the world come to ride the waves. Don't miss the cozy fishing port nestled in the rocks which is considered by many as a tiny village within the city of Biarritz.

After the fishing port, it's off to the Rock of the Virgin. This "island" is only accessible by an imposing bridge which was constructed by Gustave Eiffel, the same architect who, of course, designed the famous Eiffel Tower in Paris. You'll make a stop for lunch at Chez Albert (not included). Located near the harbour, chez Albert serves fish and seafood exclusively from the auction house of Saint-Jean de Luz.

Then, it's off to St-Jean de Luz where you'll enjoy a town tour which will include a visit of the church where Louis XIV (France's Sun King) wed the Spanish Infante Marie-Therese in 1660, ending decades of war and defining once and for all the territorial borders of the two nations.

Saint Jean de Luz also has a rich history of maritime activities, including pirating practices which brought enormous wealth into the town as evidenced by some of the more opulent villas that dot the bay area and square where local artists paint during the warm weather months. Cross the Spanish border & arrive in San Sebastian.

You will be dropped off at your hotel in San Sebastian.

As you enter Bayonne you may hear in Basque "Ongi etorri eskual herrian"; "welcome to the Basque Country", or "Adiou", which means "hello" in Gascon, for Bayonne lies on the junction of the two cultures. The Nive and Adour rivers meet in the heart of the town and divide Bayonne into three distinct areas. Bayonne also happens to be where chocolate was first introduced into Europe and is still one of the largest importers of brut chocolate.

Biarritz has been a favourite seaside getaway ever since Napoléon III and his Spanish-born wife Eugénie arrived during the mid-19th century. It's been a glamorous spot ever since, lined with elegant villas and heritage-listed residences that glitter with belle époque and art deco details. Today, Biarritz remains one of the Southwest's seaside gems, known for its famous beaches, therapeutic waters, and a thriving surf scene, Biarritz offers visitors a unique atmosphere. This is a place where posh restaurants and spas live harmoniously side-by-side with laid-back pizza joints and surf shops.*

The former Basque Corsairs' capital, Saint Jean de Luz is a small enchanting fishing village which became rich in the 16th century thanks to fishing, whaling, and interestingly, piracy. The 'finest moment' for the town was in 1660 when Louis XIV married Marie-Thérèse of Spain in the town church – the Basque church of St John the Baptist. St. Jean de Luz has an active fishing harbour filled with colourfully painted boats and a sprawling bay area. Its boutique-lined pedestrian streets and art galleries make this town a "must-see" when visiting the Basque Country.

Full day trip with private driver/guide (length: aprx 9h)

In this road trip through the Basque Coast, you will discover amazing beaches, incredible lookouts, cute villages, stunning cliffs, unbelievable islets and a unique bridge.

Your private driver/guide will pick you up from your hotel in San Sebastian to drive along the scenic coastal road N634 which takes you along the Bay of Biscay—the gulf of the northeast Atlantic Ocean located south of the Celtic Sea.

You will have amazing photo opportunities of this wonderful location from 2 spectacular viewpoints (one of them being from the bridge itself), but you will not make the whole walk to the summit of the island and back, as it requires a timeframe of at least 2 hours.

Lunch (not included in the cost): your driver/guide will certainly suggest few places on the way to grab some pintxos or raciones but we recommend something quick and casual as the journey is long and you wouldn't want to miss anything...

This stunning drive will end in Bilbao, where you will spend the next few days.

Free evening in Bilbao.

Getaria: The attractive medieval fishing settlement of Getaria is a great place to get a feel for the true coastal Basque culture. The old village tilts gently downhill to a small harbour and a short but very pleasant beach. The town's most famous son, the sailor Juan Sebastián Elcano, was the first man to sail around the world, after the captain of his ship, Magellan, died halfway through the endeavour.

Zumaia is the place where the green mountains, suddenly meet the Atlantic Ocean! The village is the gateway to wondrous cliffs of the Basque Coast Geopark, a geological wonder spanning 60 million years.

Guernika: on April 26th 1937, during the Spanish Civil War, the town was razed to the ground by German aircraft, sent by Hitler to support Franco's troops. When Picasso painted the Guernika in 1937, he could not have imagined that its vision of the bombing would become an ant warlike symbol. Be introduced to the Basque History, in the heart of the Basque Nationalism. That harrowing April day left a deep mark on the city's identity. Following the war, Gernika was quickly reconstructed, and although it lost its historic buildings, the narrow lanes of the centre are today brimming with life. You'll find some excellent museums that deal with the bombing as well as the indestructibility of Basque culture through the ages.

San Juan de Gaztelugache is an awe-inspiring island located just off the shore along the Bay of Biscay and connected to the mainland by a man-made stone bridge. The views to and around the island are simply beautiful. At the highest point of the island, there is a tiny church dedicated to John the Baptist. The island also has an intriguing history. Throughout the years it has housed a convent, served as a prison for Basque witches during the Spanish Inquisition, been used as a defensive outpost for the lords of Biscay, and was even ransacked by Sir Francis Drake.

In the evening we highly recommend to experience the vibrant night atmosphere and do your own "Pintxos Tour" following the useful recommendations that we will provide you so you can sample the most authentic and local bars of Bilbao old town.

Bilbao's main urban core is surrounded by two small mountain ranges (with an average elevation of 400 m). After its foundation in the early 14th century by Diego López V de Haro, head of the powerful Haro family, Bilbao was a commercial hub of the Basque Country and enjoyed significant importance in the region, thanks to its significant port activity centered on the export of iron extracted from the Biscayan quarries. Throughout the nineteenth century and the beginning of the twentieth, Bilbao experienced heavy industrialization, making it the center of the second-most industrialized region of Spain, behind Barcelona. The building of Frank Gehry's Guggenheim Museum in 1997 not only changed the way architects and people think about museums and their relationship with the art they house but also boosted Bilbao's economy with its astounding success. In fact, the phenomenon of a city's transformation following the construction of a significant piece of architecture is now referred to as the "Bilbao Effect."

The Guggenheim Museum, designed by Canadian-American architect Frank Gehry, is one of the most admired works of contemporary architecture and a landmark of audacious design. The museum, set on the bank of the Nervión River, is a fusion of complex, swirling forms and captivating materials providing an alluring backdrop for the art exhibited in it. The museum notably exhibits large-scale installations by contemporary artists, such as Richard Serra's 100-meter-long (340 ft) Snake, and displays the work of Basque artists, as well as housing a selection of pieces from the Foundation's modern art collection. The only permanent exhibit is The Matter of Time a series of weathering steel sculptures designed by Serra, which is housed in the 130-meter Arcelor Gallery.

Pintxos are the Basque Country's answer to Spain's tapas. Traditionally they are small pieces of bread, topped with various traditional ingredients such as local cheese with figs, ham with fried green peppers, cod croquettes or pieces of Spanish omelet. In fact, they could be topped with any manner of ingredients, in any number of combinations. Tapas were actually invented before pintxos, and came about because people would place small pieces of bread on top of their drinks to stop flies and other insects getting in – essentially it became a lid or a 'tapa' in Spanish. The trend reached the Basque Country in the 1930s; not content with ordinary tapas, some bars in the city started to create miniature portions of their dishes, and displayed them along the bar so that customers could try them. To make it easier for their clients and to keep them together, they speared them with wooden cocktail sticks.

Meals included: Breakfast

Depending on the weather, this will either be served on an outdoor terrace, overlooking their vineyards or in a unique private cellar carved right out of the bedrock .

NOTE: If the winery we normally use is not available for lunch, we will upgrade you to a 3-course lunch with wine at one of the local restaurants.

After lunch, we will take you to explore the Medieval hilltop town of Laguardia. Surrounded by a 13th century wall, this picturesque spot is a natural balcony towards the wine region. The streets of Laguardia are full of splendid medieval, Renaissance, Baroque and Neoclassical buildings.

After a short walk through Laguardia and before heading back to your hotel you will get the opportunity of sightseeing two of the most architecturally emblematic wineries of the region: Bodega Ysios (flagship of the new Rioja and a symbol of quality and cutting edge technology as well as the only winery in the world designed by Santiago Calatrava) and Marques de Riscal (known worldwide for the colored curves of the hotel designed by Frank Gehry).

The Rioja wine region, Spain's oldest D.O wine-producing region is made up of three distinct subzones; Rioja Alta (whose "capital" is Haro), Rioja Baja (the majority of which lies in the very dry, much hotter south-eastern portion) and Rioja Alavesa (the section of the Rioja that belongs to the Basque Country, found in the province of Alava).

Rioja Alavesa, with 13,000 hectares of vineyards, and Rioja Alta boast the most prestigious wineries. There are more than 600 hundred wineries making up the Rioja D.O.C., Spain's largest, with some 300 in the Rioja Alavesa alone and 63,000 hectares of vineyards. The Rioja is a stunningly beautiful and ancient area dating from the Neolithic era, where you'll find atmospheric fortress towns on hills, some with their medieval walls still intact and filled with Noble homes displaying their heraldic shields. There are enormous Gothic churches, each with its own amazing, ornately gilded Baroque altarpiece, but seldom seen, because these churches are kept tightly shut other than for mass. Ancient burial markers (dólmenes), scattered about the fields intermix with the wineries, both boutique and large.

Raided from 711 to 739 by the Arabs, Santiago de Compostela was finally conquered by the Visigothic king of Asturias in 754, about 60 years before the identification of remains as those of Saint James the Great, and their acceptance as such by the Pope and Charlemagne, during the reign of Alfonso II of Asturias. With a population of about 96,000 inhabitants, it's one of the most important cities of Galicia and the most touristic of them, receiving thousands of visitors every year, many of them attracted to the ancient history and the religious tradition. You will even have the opportunity to swim in its warm water!

Lunch: this wonderful experience will be completed with the tasting of some of the local wines and products, beautifully served at Luisa's cozy place just down by the river, the magical "Quinta Sacra".

After lunch, your driver/guide will pick you up from the port where you embarked this morning to take you for an afternoon scenic drive to visit a local Romanesque church in the area and the enchanting Monforte de Lemos, a town of medieval origin where the Monastery of Saint Vicente do Pino is the main highlight.

Free evening.

Ribeira Sacra is the mountainous area in Galicia where the Sil and Miño rivers meet forming a millennial 500 meters deep canyon. At the top of the canyon, above the river, you will find several natural lookouts with impressive views over the area. The Miño riverside is where you'll find vineyards set on terraced structures where winemakers use the traditional Ribeira method. The first people to settle in this area were Christian monks and hermits searching for an ascetic life back in the 12th century. Based on this heritage, the region is full of monasteries that radiate art, culture, and growth to the whole Galician region.*
